Eni Modern Slavery Statement 2017

This statement refers to Eni Group¹ (herein referred to as "Eni", "we", "us", or "our") in accordance with the Modern Slavery Act 2015 and describes the steps taken by Eni during year ending 31 December 2017 to prevent slavery and human trafficking in its supply chain or in any part of its own business

Introduction

We believe that business has the responsibility to respect and support the fundamental human rights, as expressed in the Universal Declaration for Human Rights and the United Nations Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights. Eni is committed to maintaining and improving its practices to combat slavery and human trafficking violations in its operations and supply chain. We have zero tolerance towards slavery and human trafficking and expect our supply chain to comply accordingly.

About Eni

Eni is an energy company. We are working to build a future where everyone can access energy resources efficiently and sustainably. Our work is based on passion and innovation, on our unique strengths and skills, on the quality of our people and in recognizing that diversity across all aspects of our operations and organization is something to be cherished.

We believe in the value of long term partnerships with the countries and communities where we operate. Since it was founded, Eni has been inspired by principles that guide its every move – and make its modus operandi unique. Eni is committed to promote these ideals through trust, reciprocal exchange of knowledge and the sharing of values and objectives. Our actions are always aimed at safeguarding and promoting human rights, respecting safe and fair working standards, protecting the environment and countering corruption.
