The Eni Deutschland mission:

Eni Deutschland GmbH is one of the leading mineral oil companies in Germany.

We are striving for a continuous improvement of our performance and we are committed in all of our business activities to sustainable, future-oriented development. By this, we mean the combination of long-term economic success with environmental protection and the acceptance of social responsibility. In addition, highest priority is attributed to our employees' occupational safety as well as the partners' and customers' ones.

We achieve this by offering our customers high quality products and services, appreciating and encouraging our employees and our partners as a valuable resource, investing in technical innovations, respecting our fellow human beings and by contributing to the sustainable development and welfare of the society.
