

Eni for Italy: from today, a 20% discount on agricultural and fishing diesel and gasoline prices until the end of October, with a possible extension until year-end

Rome, 2 October 2026 – Eni announces the extension of the price reduction on fuels marketed by Enilive to the agricultural and fishing sectors. Current Enilive customers will be able, from today, to purchase agricultural and fishing diesel and gasoline at a discounted price of 20% net of VAT.

The discount will apply from today until 31 October and may be extended until the end of the year, depending on market conditions and product availability.

This decision is part of the Eni for Italy initiative, following the price cap on diesel and gasoline applied at participating Enilive stations since September 28, as well as the discount on electricity and gas tariffs with prices locked recently announced by Plenitude.

Eni aims to provide a further contribution of solidarity to the country and to two strategic sectors, agriculture and fishing.
